BRIT. FLIERS OVER DESERT

War Aviators Unheard From But Authorities Believe They Are Safe.

LONDON, Dec. 18— (INS) — Two distinguished British war pilots, Squadron Leader A. G. Jones Williams and Flight Lieutenant N. H. Jenkins, today were believed to be speeding southward over the Great Sahara desert of Africa in their attempt to make a nonstop flight from England to Capetown, South Africa, 6,000 miles away.

Although the air ministry stated this morning that it had had no news of the airmen's progress, no anxiety for their safety was expressed.

The airmen hopped off from Cranwell airdrome, Lincolnshire, yesterday in a royal air force Fairey-Napier monoplane.

They carried 1000 gallons of gasoline which they estimated would be sufficient to keep them aloft about 60 hours.

Eight hours after their start, the fliers radioed they were off the coast of Sarina in the Mediterranean.

If the fliers succeed in reaching their destination without coming down, they will have shattered the former long distance record of approximately 5,000 miles established by Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte in their recent flight from Paris to Manchuria.

A few months ago, Williams and Jerkins made the first non-stop flight from England to India in the same plane they are now using.

JAPS EXPRESS HOOVER'S IDEA OF NAVY CUT

Policy Seems To Be To Let U. S. and Britain Name Suggestions.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—President Hoover's expressed hope for "real reduction" of Navies at the London conference next month has been echoed here by Japan's delegates conversations this week with the American delegates.

But the Japanese have carefully refrained from suggesting any minimum figures or tonnage to which such reduction might go. Their apparent policy, as thus far revealed, is to let Great Britain and the United States do the suggesting along this line. Japan apparently is content to rest her case on her claim to 10 per cent of the highest figure allotted either Britain or the United States in auxiliary naval craft, and, of course, reserving the right to dissent if the figures go below what she considers necessary for maintaining Tokio's position and prestige in the Far East.

The Japanese-American conversations, which have their counterpart to some extent in the Franco-Italian conversations in Europe, and the earlier Anglo-American exchanges, have pretty clearly established, however, that there is scant hope of abolishing either the battleship or the submarine at the London confesence.

The most, apparently, that can be hoped for in this direction is the postponement of capital ship replacement, due to start in 1935 under the Washington treaty, and severe limitation of submarine tonnage, which is not now limited at all.

BIG SAVINGS

Postponement of capital ship replacement would in itself represent considerable monetary saving by the powers, for the cost of these dreadnaughts run from $35,000,000 to $45.000.000 each, and Great Britian has 20, the United States 18 and Japan 10.

Eventually, the prediction is rather general that they will be abolished, as further advances are made in aerial developmnet, and the development of the fast, light crusier capable of carying 8-inch guns, in which Germany already has made such progress. But for the time being, the powers seem willing to coast along on the question to see what the future holds, meanwhile not building battleships. Throughout the world there is not a battleship now being constructed, nor is one in contemplation by any of the powers so far as naval experts here know.

The Japanese conversation in Washington have developed, too, what was already generally conceded— that the cruiser question is to be the real knot through which the powers will have to cut their way to an understanding. It is in this category that Japan's claim to 70 per cent strength realizes its true effectiveness.

OHIO PRISONS REPORTED AS DANGEROUSLY OVERCROWDED

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Ohio prisons were pictured as dangerously overcrowded in a comprehensive report which was issued today by the National Society of Penal Information.

Because of the series of jail breaks throughout the country in recent months, special significance was attached to the findings which were made in the third issue of "the handbook of American prisons and reformatories."

Ohio's prisons are in such deplorable condition they constitute a challenge to the socially-minded citizens of the state according to the handbook which makes this comment.

"The ancient plant at the state penitentiary in Columbus, one of the largest prisons in the country, suffers from a condition of overcrowding worse than that in any other large prison, the need of another institution in the Ohio penal system has been apparent for many years, but the state is only now taking steps to alleviate the conditions at Columbus and nothing is being done to provide a second main prison.

"Ohio, like many other states, has allowed its prison population to get far ahead of its building program, and socially-minded citizens should demand legislative and executive action without delay. When overcrowding is coppled with the amount of unemployment found here, the state of affairs becomes increasingly critical.

"The second characteristic of this prison is idleness. Not only are the shops old but they are overcrowded. Even so, there is not enough work for the large population and from 1,200 to 2,000 men are on the idle list. Idleness is made more conspicuous here than in many prisons by the use of the 'idle room,' in which hundreds of men spend their days sitting on benches in absolute idleness under the eyes of guards."

Salaries of officials in the Ohio penal institution are "notoriously low," the report says. Commenting on the construction of the plant at London, Ohio, the handbook asserts that "the institution, well planned and well built, is an interesting demonstration of the type of construction work that can be done by inmate labor."

Members Play With Toys Like Kiddies—Presents Given To Children's Home.

Circleville's Chamber of Commerce went back a number of years at their regular meeting Tuesday and exchanged Christmas gifts which were played with and enjoyed almost as much as a bunch of children would enjoy them.

Blowing on toy horns, playing mouth-organs, rocking doll babies running aeroplanes over the tables, playing with walking ducks and enjoying a few minutes with practically every type of toy that could be purchased in Circleville stores the members of the Chamber enjoyed a real Christmas party.

The toys were given to the members by a real Santa Claus, Will Marion, who also gave a short talk on Christmas.

But this bunch of fun the members had wasn't near so much fun as the kiddies at the Children's home will get out of the toys for they were taken to the Home after the meeting for the benefit of the kiddies there.

It was decided that the meetings of the next two weeks be dispensed of because of Christmas and Year's Eve.

The meeting was one of the best the Chamber has had for many weeks.

Little Mary Virginia Crites, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meinhardt Crites of W. Franklin-st is spending this week in Dayton the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Turner.

COURT RULING ON DR. SNOOK IS UNCERTAIN

Bald Professor To Die On Friday Night Unless Court Intervenes.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec., 18—(INS)—The decision of the appeal of Dr. James H. Snook, 49, convicted co-ed murderer, who is sentenced to die in the electric chair at the Ohio State penitentiary Friday night, remained uncertain in the hands of the Ohio Supreme court here today.

The jurists of the state's highest tribunal were expected to announce their decision this morning, but it did not materialize. It is not known when the high court will make its ruling.

Reports in official circles here say that the bald, bespectacled ex-college professor who sley his co-ed parmour, Miss Theora Hix, 24, will NOT die in the electric chair Friday night.

Even if the supreme court rejects his appeal, it was pointed out, the inmate of "death row" will be granted a stay of execution to allow his attorneys to carry the case to the federal courts as has been their avowed intention.

Should the supreme court decide to hear the case on its merits, it would automatically grant a stay.

Although the scheduled electrocution is only slightly more than 48 hours distant, it wes believed on all sides that the famous killer would be saved from paying the supreme penalty at that time.

Dr. Snook, who admittedly beat Miss Hix, who was then a student at the Ohio State university, with a hammer and then slit her throat with a pocket-knife, has already been granted one stay of execution. He was originally sentenced to die Nov. 28, but a supreme court ruling vacated the date until Dec. 20.

Detroit Police Hold Four In Connection With Escape of Master Criminal.

DETROIT, Dec. 18— (INS) — Two men and two women are being held today by Detroit police following raids on apartment houses in which Fred R. Burke, 44, machine gun slayer alleged bank robber and kidnaper, was reported hiding.

FURS, VALUED AT $50, TAKEN

John Strawser, E. Walnut-St, Reports Skins Stolen From Coal Shed.

John Strawser, E. Walnut-st, an employe of the Win-Orr Canning Co., reported to police Wednesday that the coal shed in the rear of his home had been broken into sometime after 10 p. m. Tuesday and furs valued at $50 had been stolen.

The furs stolen were five muskrats, three brown mink and one coon.

Strawser said he retired at shortly after 10 p. m. and up until that time no one had been at the shed. Investigation showed that an attempt had been made to pry open the rear window of the shed, but when that failed because of a board across the window a steeple holding the front door was cut.

176 CHILDREN FATHERLESS BY DISASTER

Cause of Oklahoma Shaft Explosion Not Determined —Five Men Rescued.

McALESTER, Okla., Dec. 18.— As grief-stricken relatives looked on, the bodies of 51 victims of the Old Town coal mine disaster were brought to the surface today.

This leaves only nine men inside the death trap, as five were rescued.

It was revealed that 15 of the miners entombed in the mine were negroes; 32 were Mexicans and 15 were white men.

Danger of another explosion was threatening the rescue workers as they labored machine-like to bring to the surface the bodies of their dead comrades.

According to Miller H. Hay, chief state mine inspector the gas is so dense in the lower shaft where the bodies of the remaining victims are located, that the rescue workers are in constant danger.

Five men have been rescued they are Charles Penfield, mine engineer, Joe Griffin, Arnold Kessinger, Joe Ponsella, Mexican and Frank Gonzales. This accounts for 48 of the 65 of the men imprisoned.

According to one of the rescue workers the explosion occurred at the bottom of the mine some 5,000 feet underground, back under the city of McAlester.

Governor Holloway has been asked by Red Cross officials to issue a call for a relief fund of $30,000 to care for the wives and children of the victims.

A. J. Putterbaugh, president of the McAlester Fuel company said today that approximately 176 children would be fatherless as the result of the explosion.

Miller D. Hay, chief mine inspector, told International News Service today that no cause for the explosion has been attributed as yet.

About 1,000 persons, relatives and friends of the imprisoned miners, huddled together at the mouth of the mine throughout most of the night.

Most of the 43 bodies brought to the surface were burned badly making identification difficult.

The state department of mines revealed today that 402 miners have lost their lives in mine disasters in Oklahoma during the past 40 years.

GALE FORCES PLANES DOWN

CHICAGO, Dec. 18 —(INS) — Chicago was the focal point of a terrific blizzard that raged throughout the middlewest today. Near zero temperatures will follow in the wake of the heavy snow and wind storm, according to the local forecast bureau.

The blizzard played havoc with transportation and air mail lines, many planes being forced down in remote sections of the country.

The Northwest airways, carrying mail between Chicago and Minneapolis, was the hardest hit. One pilot, after being lost in the night for six hours, finally landed safely at Cudany airport, near Milwaukee.

Another mail plane was forced down at Fondulac, and still another at Mauston, Wis.

Communication lines have been blown down and many sections of the midwest were out of touch with the outside world.

Several inches of snow fell in Chicago during the night, drifting in huge banks over car lines and boulevards. Traffic was tied up and several serious accidents were reported.

Mrs. Vernon Lilly and son of Detroit, will arrive Saturday to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Renick.

Essential That Entries For Home Lighting Contest Be Made Soon

With forty prizes to offer, with a value of $350 the entries are coming in fast for the Home Lighting and Decorating Contest, being sponsored by the Circleville Chamber of Commerce. The entries do not close until Saturday and all that is necessary for you to do is fill out the entry blank, found elsewhere in The Herald, and mail it to Mack Parrett Jr, or 'phone him at 444 and enter your name.

Then you no doubt have some original ideas as to how your decorating and lighting should be done to make the home most attractive. It won't be necessary to make an elaborate display to be among the winners. The most simple setting, unique in design and lighting effect may be the first prize winner, just as well as the large home with plenty of shrubbery and yard to decorate.

To hesitate making an entry and decorating the home will not give you an opportunity to win a prize for the judges will consider only those who have entered, so by all means send your entry blank in today or 'phone 444.

COURT RULING ON DR. SNOOK IS UNCERTAIN

COLUMBUS, O., Dec., 18—(INS)—The decision of the appeal of Dr. James H. Snook, 49, convicted co-ed murderer, who is sentenced to die in the electric chair at the Ohio State penitentiary Friday night, remained uncertain in the hands of the Ohio Supreme court here today.

The jurists of the state's highest tribunal were expected to announce their decision this morning, but it did not materialize. It is not known when the high court will make its ruling.

Reports in official circles here say that the bald, bespectacled ex-college professor who sley his co-ed parmour, Miss Theora Hix, 24, will NOT die in the electric chair Friday night.

Even if the supreme court rejects his appeal, it was pointed out, the inmate of "death row" will be granted a stay of execution to allow his attorneys to carry the case to the federal courts, as has been their avowed intention.

Should the supreme court decide to hear the case on its merits, it would automatically grant a stay.

Although the scheduled electrocution is only slightly more than 48 hours distant, it was believed on all sides that the famous killer would be saved from paying the supreme penalty at that time.

Dr. Snook, who admittedly beat Miss Hix, who was then a student at the Ohio State university, with a hammer and then slit her throat with a pocket-knife, has already been granted one stay of execution. He was originally sentenced to die Nov. 28, but a supreme court ruling vacated the date until Dec. 20.

RAIN RAISES SCIOTO RIVER

Dr. Clarke Reports .55 Inches of Rainfall Since 7 A. M. Tuesday.

With a heavy general rain continuing, rivermen reported Wednesday that the Scioto river had raised almost four feet since 6 p. m. Tuesday and was threatening to overflow its banks.

The river had fallen considerably but with the rains which have been continuously falling all along the river route the Scioto has reached an almost floodstage point.

Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather observer, reports that from 7 a. m. Tuesday to 7 a. m. Wednesday there had been a rainfall of .55 inch.

HUNT BURKE IN 3 PLACES

DETROIT, Dec. 18— (INS) — Two men and two women are being held today by Detroit police following raids on apartment houses in which Fred R. Burke, 44, machine gun slayer alleged bank robber and kidnaper, was reported hiding.

The prisoners are Harry Hallisey, 35, and his wife, Doris, 29, and Morton G. Brennan, 42, and his wife, Gladys, 20. They are being held incommunicado. Detectives of the Canfield station who made the arrests refused to say why the suspects were detained.

Burke is variously believed to have found refuge in Detroit, where he organized his mob of machine gunners and engaged in wholesale abductions; in Chicago, where he led his killers in the St. Valentine's day massacre, and in Colomna, Mich, where he was last seen following the shooting of Deputy Police Chief Charles Skelly.

FURS, VALUED AT $50, TAKEN

John Strawser, E. Walnut-st, an employe of the Win-Orr Canning Co., reported to police Wednesday that the coal shed in the rear of his home had been broken into sometime after 10 p. m. Tuesday and furs valued at $50 had been stolen.

Strawser said he retired at shortly after 10 p. m. and up until that time no one had been at the shed. Investigation showed that an attempt had been made to pry open the rear window of the shed, but when that failed because of a board across the window a steeple holding the front door was cut.

City and county officers are investigating the robbery and have already questioned two persons concerning the theft.

176 CHILDREN FATHERLESS BY DISASTER

McALESTER, Okla., Dec. 18.— As grief-stricken relatives looked on, the bodies of 51 victims of the Old Town coal mine disaster were brought to the surface today.

It was revealed that 15 of the miners entombed in the mine were negroes; 32 were Mexicans and 15 were white men.

Danger of another explosion was tnreatening the rescue workers as they labored machine-like to bring to the surface the bodies of tneir dead comrades.

According to Miller H. Hay, chief state mine inspector the gas is so dense in the lower shaft where tne bodies of the remaining victims are located, that the rescue workers are in constant danger.

Five men have been rescued they are Charles Penfield, mine engineer, Joe Griffin, Arnold Kessinger, Joe Ponsella, Mexican and Frank Gonzales. This accounts for 48 of the 65 of the men imprisoned.

According to one of the rescue workers the explosion occurred at the bottom of the mine some 5,000 feet underground, back under the city of McAlester.

Governor Holloway has been asked by Red Cross officials to issue a call for a relief fund of $30,000 to care for the wives and children of the victims.

A. J. Putterbaugh, president of the McAlester Fuel company said today that approximately 176 children would be fatherless as the result of the explosion.

Miller D. Hay, chief mine inspector, told International News Service today that no cause for the explosion has been attributed as yet.

About 1,000 persons, relatives and friends of the imprisoned miners, huddled together at the mouth of the mine throughout most of the night.

Most of the 43 bodies brought to the surface were burned badly making identification difficult.

GALE FORCES PLANES DOWN

CHICAGO, Dec. 18 —(INS) — Chicago was the focal point of a terrific blizzard that raged throughout the middlewest today. Near zero temperatures will follow in the wake of the heavy snow and wind storm, according to the local forecast bureau.

The blizzard played havoc with transportation and air mail lines, many planes being forced down in remote sections of the country.

The Northwest airways, carrying mail between Chicago and Minneapolis, was the hardest hit. One pilot, after being lost in the night for six hours, finally landed safely at Cudany airport, near Milwaukee.

Another mail plane was forced down at Fondulac, and still another at Mauston, Wis.

Communication lines have been blown down and many sections of the midwest were out of touch with the outside world.

Several inches of snow fell in Chicago during the night, drifting in huge banks over car lines and boulevards. Traffic was tied up and several serious accidents were reported.

Mrs. Vernon Lilly and son of Detroit, will arrive Saturday to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Renick.

"I HAVE HEALTH AGAIN; OWE ALL TO NEW KONJOLA"

MR. EDWARD BOBBITT

"I have health again, and I owe it all to this new Konjola," said Mr. Edward Bobbitt, 12 Mercer Street, Cincinnati, Ohio. "For the last four months I had been unable to work on account of poor health. My ailments were many. My stomach was out of order and prevented my food from digesting properly. I was also a sufferer from kidney and liver trouble, constipation, and then I developed a severe case of neuritis and rheumatism. The pains were almost unbearable.

"I thought my case hopeless as nothing I tried did any good However, Konjola caused me to quickly change my mind. Why, I could almost feel Konjola when it went to work. Soon my stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels were restored to normal functioning Then the neuritis and rheumatism was swept away. I actually seem to be a different person That's my experience with Konjola."

"I HAVE HEALTH AGAIN; OWE ALL TO NEW KONJOLA"

MR. EDWARD BOBBITT
"I have health again, and I owe it all to this new Konjola," said Mr. Edward Bobbitt, 12 Mercer Street, Cincinnati, Ohio. "For the last four months I had been unable to work on account of poor health. My ailments were many. My stomach was out of order and prevented my food from digesting properly. I was also a sufferer from kidney and liver trouble, constipation, and then I developed a severe case of neuritis and rheumatism. The pains were almost unbearable.
"I thought my case hopeless as nothing I tried did any good. However, Konjola caused me to quickly change my mind. Why, I could almost feel Konjola when it went to work. Soon my stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels were restored to normal functioning. Then the neuritis and rheumatism was swept away. I actually seem to be a different person. That's my expérience with Konjola."

COUNTY INTEREST FOCUSSED ON DEERCREEK, NEW HOLLAND

One of the toughest and most important basketball games of the county, of which the winner at this time cannot be possibly selected, will be played in the county loop Friday evening at New Holland when the Williamsport and New Holland teams meet.

Williamsport easily defeated Scioto-twp in the first game by a score of 20 to 7. They took their second game from Walnut-twp by a 28-12 score.

New Holland surprised in the first contest by winning from Ashville 18 to 16 in one of the hottest contested games played to date. Then they came right back to drub Monroe-twp boys by a 22-12 score.

One of the two teams is going to be a loser and the other will still possess a perfect standing at the end of their fracas Friday evening.

Jackson-twp and Walnut-twp will play a contest at Walnut with the Jackson boys slightly favored by virtue of their present showing as against two defeats for the Walnut lads.

Monroe-twp and Scioto-twp will tangle in a tough fray with the result of the contest a toss-up. The game will be played at Scioto.

Ashville will play its first game against Muhlenberg Friday evening and should be returned the victor. Ashville has had tough sledding in each of its first two games winning one and losing one, but back on their own floor where they will play the remainder of their season games, the Kaubermen will be plenty tough.

Saltcreek-twp will probably vanquish the Washington-twp Wanderers when the teams meet at Saltcreek.

Girls' games are scheduled as preliminaries to the boys' contests.

CIRCLEVILLE IS READY FOR WASHINGTON

Circleville high school's basketball team is ready to win its first basketball game of the year and the victim of this first victory is going to be none other than the Washington C. H. quintet. Another part of this catch is that the game is going to be played at the Washington C. H. gym.

But after going through two basketball games that might have been entered on the Tiger side of the ledger, especially the last one with Marysville, the Red and Black is ready to enter the score of a court game on the right side of the ledger, and that side is the victory side.

Washington C. H. has a good basketball team as usual. But that makes no difference to this bunch of scrapping Tiger tossers. Just ask any member of the Red and Black squad if Washington isn't in for one of the toughest fights it has had on the hard wood for many moons.

The first basketball game the Tigers played they lost to Lancaster St. Mary high school. The score was 35-15 and although this score doesn't tell a thing except that the Tigers were outscored and plenty, the real truth of the contest was that the Red and Black had forgotten their football tactics since the Ashville game which was a month before this basketball battle.

The second defeat came at the hands of a Marysville high school team. There's no question of a doubt among the basketball players and all who watched the game that Circleville had quite the best team on the floor.

But after leading at the half something happened and the Tigers lost another basketball game. The score was 19 to 12.

In this game Marysville shot from the charity line 28 times and the local tossers toed the mark but 12 times. Quite a difference, isn't it?

Now comes the Washington C. H. team.

London high school's tossers drubbed the Washington team by a score of 44 to 17. No one knows why the score was this much except that London was on and Washington was very decidedly off form.

All the Washington scoring was done by Birley at forward with two field goals; Noon at forward with three buckets and a free throw; and Severs at center with three action shots.

But at that scores don't mean a thing. Lancaster St. Mary was defeated by Rushville the week before Coach Guthrie's men went to Lancaster but that didn't mean a thing for Lancaster went plenty hot against the local aggregation.

There's no way of knowing what lineup Coach Guthrie will start for that man doesn't tell a thing. It's entirely possible that the same lineup which worked against Marysville most of the game last Friday will be in there. That was Davis and Nickerson at forwards, Zeke Zeimer at center, and Russell and Wilson at guards, although there is a big possibility that Clark will be at a defensive post at the start or very early in the game.

EVEREADY RECEIVERS

SO MUCH POWER is produced by the three screen-grid tubes in the new Evereadys that a Power Detector is used. Power Detection avoids all the distortion of the older method. This is only one reason why the tone of the Screen-Grid Eveready is so faithful and true that musical critics acclaim it with delight. Some of the other factors in fidelity are: resistance coupling—distortionless; 245-type tubes in push-pull—full volume without distortion; and a sensitive, powerful electro-dynamic speaker in an acoustically designed cabinet.

HUMAN PEOPLE, HORSE PEOPLE, DOG PEOPLE

W. R. Waggoner, Texas oil man and horse fancier, offers a million dollars for Reigh Count, winner of last year's Kentucky Derby. It is the biggest price ever offered for a horse. And John D. Hertz, Chicago magnate, refuses the million, with this immortal statement:

"Such an offer could come only from the biggest fool in the world. I will be a bigger fool. No money can buy that horse."

Reigh Count will probably never race again. But he is regarded as a member of the Hertz family, and to sell him would be like selling one of the children. Many a dog-owner, though having no interest in horses, will understand how that is.

A family which makes only a slight distinction between "human people" and "dog people" happens to include a thoroughbred Collie of blue-ribbon possibilities. When the human members are asked why they don't exhibit him, they say they're afraid he might win the championship, and then people would want to buy him for a lot of money. They want him to live a private life with the rest of the family.

SUBSTITUTE RUBBER

It probably will not be long before the world knows definitely whether Thomas Edison has achieved the tremendously important goal of obtaining rubber from weeds in quantity and quality to insure an adequate supply at a reasonable price.

Just before he started to Florida the other day it was admitted that Edison had succeeded in making rubber from a number of different weeds. The problem now is the selection of the most effective and proftable weed commercially. It is hinted that the new rubber is better than the present commercial product.

If this is true the United States will soon have an inexhaustible rubber supply within its own boundaries, an obviously important development. Also, Edison will have achieved another success as valuable as his lamp.

SLEEP PAYS WELL

Early to bed and early to rise in the Rockefeller household makes a person wealthy at least to the extent of a shiny new nickel.

"There is a bright new nickel each morning," John D. Rockefeller, Sr., explained to a reporter, "for each member of my household who goes to bed at night and never looks at his watch or worries about the time."

Worry is not conducive to a night of healthful, restful sleep, particularly worry about one's personal affairs. Worry about time— the lateness of the hour, the hour of rising, etc.— knocks out sleep. Worry about insomnia merely prolongs the distressing wakefulness.

The shiny nickel may not be worth sleeping for, but it symbolizes the very good rewards that follow really restful sleep.

Mexican congressmen are said to be considering an inquiry to find out who cast those 12,000 votes against the new president.

THE ADVANCE TRIP

"The Masked Hostess"

by BLAIR STEVENSON

CHAPTER XXXV.

NATHALIE cast herself on the floor as she heard a man's voice shout something to Queenie and had a glimpse of two men who seized the girl and dragged her to a small automobile.

Nathalie heard it chug and start and knew that it was going out of the clearing and away.

But she was afraid to raise her head and attempt another glance out of doors when she heard first one automobile horn sound and then another, neither one of them near to the house, but apparently exchanging signals. Then she flattened herself against the floor and lay utterly still as she heard the report of a pistol, also distant, but coming closely after the automobile horns.

For fifteen minutes she lay as she was, not moving.

Then she heard a car arrive at a point, by the sound of it, some hundred feet from the house, and men get out of it.

"It ought to be here somewhere," she heard a man's voice say. "At least I figure that way, from the tone of the whistle we heard and the two car horns right after it."

"Yes," agreed a second voice. "It will be somewhere around here if there is a house at all. Here comes the other car now."

"Right on time, too," said the first voice. "Got my signal the first time. Wonderful, ain't it, how a shot carries when you would think all these woods would deaden the sound of it?"

She heard a second car come up and stop and a voice speak from it in a tone of authority.

"Well! What have you found?"

"Nothing, sarge. Nothing just yet."

There was a brief silence and then a third voice announced:

"I see it."

And from the way the voice came to her, Nathalie knew that someone was speaking from the top of a tree.

Then the same voice spoke again, this time through a megaphone.

"Listen, anybody who's in that house. The State Police speaking. This is your chance to come out and surrender. We'll give you two minutes, and then if you're not out we'll shoot our way in. Got it?"

As Nathalie fainted she thought she heard the voice say, but not through the megaphone:

"Now, Mr. Sloan, keep your shirt on. The State Police are in charge and you're not to go in till we go in."

As Nathalie swooned she again dreamed that she was somewhere at the core of a huge opaque ball which was whirling around in space.

She awakened in the arms of John Sloan.

She knew she was awake, for she was on a sofa, and Sloan was holding her, and the room was full of State troopers.

She was certain she was awake when Sloan said fervently, "Thank God," and kissed her.

"I think I and my outfit will take another look around outside," said the sergeant in command of the troopers.

He and his men went out.

"Keep perfectly quiet, darling," said Sloan, who looked very white, but very happy. "A doctor has been sent for and when he arrives he and I will carry you upstairs and—"

"I don't want to go upstairs," said Nathalie. "I want to stay right where I am."

Sloan laughed. "Why should you want to stay here?"

"Because," Nathalie answered with great firmness, "I love you."

* * *

"I think I understand everything at last," said Nathalie as she lay, late in the afternoon, in one of the beds upstairs with a nurse in charge in a chair by the window and Sloan sitting beside the bed and holding Nathalie's hand.

"I think it is all clear at last," she repeated. "Ferris, you say, knew about the new road that was going to cut The Firs in half and

Pound also knew it, and Pound was trying to get it away from me by foreclosing the bank's mortgage and Ferris by getting me to sign a deed of it to him for some small amount of money.

"Yes," Sloan answered. "That was the situation exactly."

"And then Ferris," continued Nathalie, "had me kidnaped and brought here, and intended to come here himself and get me to sign a deed. You said, didn't you, that the men right behind me in the car when I escaped from The Firs were the ones who were to do it, but that when I managed to escape them by reaching the railroad crossing ahead of them they went to the bank?"

"Correct again," replied Sloan. "They knew Ferris was in Brookville and went to him for instructions when they lost you. By the time they reached there you had gone into the bank and Ferris, by then frantic, ran into the restaurant across the street and told his men on watch there to stage an imitation hold-up and get you out before you could sign a deed to Pound. Ferris thought that was what you had gone into the bank for."

"I was already on my way from New York by then, Monty Delaine having told me over the telephone about his sale and that your property was very valuable. When I reached Brookville the village was in an uproar, but the State Police were on the job. They have men all over Long Island, you know, and a good communication system. One of their men out here suggested this location as a likely place for keeping you in hiding, but there are several cottages in this neighborhood standing alone like this one. As luck would have it we tried this one first."

Nathalie smiled and said that it was fortunate that Monty Delaine had been up so early in the morning. "He must have stayed up on purpose."

"They had to wake him with ice when Stefano telephoned."

"Stefano!" Nathalie cried.

And then Sloan had to make another careful explanation and set a good man right.

"And can you beat this?" he added. "It seems some relative of his has just died in South America and he has inherited a second fortune."

At this Nathalie cried briefly, she was so happy to hear it.

"But I ought to cry for myself," she said suddenly, recovering her whole composure. "And for you, too, I suppose. John, I am going to be arrested when I leave here. I cashed a bad check at the Waldorf-Astoria the day before I went to Aunt Olivia's the second time."

"Good God," cried Sloan and put his arms around her. "I fixed that up two minutes after you left the hotel. Why didn't you mention it before?"

(To be concluded tomorrow).

Think It Over

Watchmaking Schools

France has three schools of watchmaking which each year graduate from 100 to 125 students.

Asking for It

Children should be encouraged to put questions. The wisdom of the whys.

DR. COPELAND SAYS—

SOUND HEALTH MEANS STRONG EYE-MUSCLES

Impaired Vision in Many Cases Is Due to Common Illness, Says Authority, Urging Parents to Guard Children's Sight.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

OUR eyes are the most delicate organs of the body, and what scant thought we give them!

If we are in good, robust health, the eyes are bound, to be strong and capable of much work. But yet defective eyes appear to be as prevalent as defective teeth.

DR COPELAND.

The majority of people who suffer from eye troubles have what the oculists call "far sightedness," but what in its practical effects results in shortsightedness. This form of eye weakness is on the increase. What causes it?

Children appear to be afflicted with poor vision today much more than formerly. A generation ago we seldom saw children wearing eye-glasses, but older people always. Somehow, it was never thought that a child could have eye weakness, or could be in need of corrective glasses.

Today, in the schools, it is usual for the teacher to report cases of eye strain in children under her care. As a result the parents send the child to a competent specialist for treatment.

Eye-weakness and eye diseases in children come very often as an after-effect of rickets. Rickets is due to lack of a right diet, causing a weakening of all the muscles and bones. The muscular parts of the eyeball grow weak, lose their elasticity, they become stretched and the child becomes short-sighted.

More and more, today, physicians are finding that many ills are caused by faulty diet. The wrong food and wrong eating are more to blame for ill health than any other one thing. To have a strong body and mind you must keep the body built up with the right food, not just any food.

When you are "run down" your body resistance to disease is lowered, and naturally in many cases the eye muscles are weakened. Now your doctor will tell you, is the time to have a change of diet, and perhaps a vacation, to allow the body and the eyes to recuperate. Plenty of fresh air and sunlight are absolute essentials in the process of building up the bodily tissues.

There are a number of common ills that bring eye weakness. For instance, if anemia is present the eyes are apt to be affected. It is a condition which is caused by malnutrition, and results in a lack of red corpuscles in the blood.

Near-sighted and far-sighted persons are likely to have impaired vision. This effect may be overcome by properly adjusted eye-glasses or spectacles.

Sties come from eye-strain or an infection from some foreign substance. A small particle of dust carried into the eye by the wind can set up an irritation that makes the whole body sick for the time being.

These wonderful days of early Winter invite one to be out in the fresh air and sunshine. Plenty of good food, fresh air and sunshine can do more to brace you up and make your eyes well than any other thing in the world. The child who is urged to play out-of-doors every possible hour is storing up health to carry him over the shut-in days of Winter.

Answers to Health Queries

B. M. R. Q.—Is there any relief for hay fever? Is it contagious or hereditary? Would the use of face powder tend to cause further irritation? Is climate a factor?

A.—Yes. See a nose and throat man for careful examination and treatment. No. The excessive use of powder might cause further irritation under the circumstances. Yes Your doctor will advise you.

* * *

L. E. Q.—Is there any way to reduce the arm between the shoulder and elbow?

A.—Exercise will reduce flabby flesh, but if the arm is large due to muscular development little can be done. Reducing in general will tend to reduce the arms.

* * *

MRS. WM. D. Q.—What is the cause of rickets?

A.—Rickets is due to improper diet and sometimes unhygienic surroundings. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

THEATRES

AT THE MET

Kyrle Bellew, noted character actor of stage and screen, who plays his first talking picture role in "Strange Cargo," an all dialogue picture filmed for Pathe under the direction of Benjamin Glazer, admits to one unique bid for fame.

Bellew is one of the distinctly few individuals who succeeded in "breaking the bank" at Monte Carlo. This smile from the gods of chance took place in 1906, when the actor was spending a vacation in Monaco after his first season on the London tage.

According to Bellew, "breaking the bank," should not be given a literal interpretation as is done by most folk. The term really means 'breaking" the particular table of the gambling casino at which one is playing.

In "Strange Cargo," which comes to the Met theatre on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday Bellew is one of a distinguished cast of stage and screen artists which includes Lee Patrick, June Nash, George Barraud, Russell Gleason, Frank Reicher, Claude King, Ned Sparks, Josephine Brown, Charles Hamilton, Otto Matiesen, Harry Allen, Andre Beranger and Warner Richmond.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Jack Conway, one of the most popular directors of Hollywood, came to the picture direct from his success with "Our Modern Maidens."

Willard Mack, the playwright, made such a success with the talking version of "Madame X" that he was assigned to do the talking scenario of "Untamed."

Robert Montgomery, one of Broadway's most brilliant young actors, come to the lead after being featured in "So This Is College," his first talking film. He was signed to a long term M-G-M contract by virtue of his work in such Broadway stage hits as "Possession" and "One of the Family." Young curly-haired, possessed of a punch in both hands and a smile, Montgomery is rated as one of the most promising "new faces" to be brought into pictures.

AT THE GRAND

The old favorite, Tom Moore, plays the leading role in "His Last Haul" a stirring picture which appears at the Grand theatre Wednesday.

He stole on Christmas eve to give happiness to the children that he loved, but a Salvation Army lass in the mission made him return the stolen goods.

Vitaphone Varieties and Talking News are on the program.

JOY WALKS

By LESLIE L. PONTIUS

I am not a naturalist, or a scientist, or a botanist, but I do love the great out-doors and have a fair knowledge of what is out there. I frequently make trips to the Great Open Spaces to read Nature's book. I find it most interesting, and so will you, if you care to take the time to investigate and read.

It has been my good fortune to form the acquaintance of men who who are naturalists, scientists, and botanists, men who can read this great book and interpret its every meaning. Notable among them is one of our fellow citizens, Floyd Bartley, who is a botanist par excellence. He is fast gaining recognition as such, and will soon be rated as one of the best field botanists in the state. Already tongues are wagging in scientific circles, and he is always a welcome visitor at the State Herbarium.

There is no closed season for the naturalist— always something new to be found, and the joy of finding knows no bounds. I have known men to drive 40 miles after night for a certain grasshopper, capture a few specimens and return home happy as little children with new toys at Christmas time. I was one of them.

The discovery of a new plant has the same effect. I saw Bartley's eyes sparkle with a brilliancy greater than that of My Lady's diamond ring, over the discovery of a clump of poison sumac which he found growing in a swamp in Ross-co. It had never been found so far south in Ohio before and he knew it.

The Botanical Department of the Ohio State university is making a record of all the plants found growing in Ohio and is glad to have plants collected and sent to them with full data. When so received, they are recorded and placed in the Herbarium with the finders name, and preserved, so that future generations may see and know what plants grow or grew in Ohio.

Last spring Bartley began collecting new and unusual plants for the university. His first consign ment of plants with their common names follows:

Yellow bedstraw and mechania (two plants never before reported for Ohio) trailing club moss, ill-scented trillium, purple rocket, white bedstraw, tall fesque grass, tall hedge mustard, ginseng, arrow leaf violet, iris cristata (white), round leaf wintergreen, false miterwort, fringed houstonia, hairy disporum, mouse-ear cress, wild hyacinth, dwarf larkspur, pink and pale cordyalis, training arbutus, pennywort, creeping wintergreen, wild sarsaparilla, creeping phlox, glaucescent, honeysuckle, panicled dogwood, withe-rod, lance leaf buckthorn, and one of our rarest ferns, asplenium, ebenoides (Scott's spleenwort).

When I saw this list I became all enthused and purchased some books on botany and began to hunt and study. Bartley wanted company, so we formed a sort of mutual partnership and roamed together through field and forest, in sunshine and rain, hunting for the new and unusual. The following list will give you an idea whether our quests have been in vain.

Red turtlehead, Japan clover, buffalo clover, rigid yellow flax, field sow thistle (all new records for the state), hyssop, marsh and mad-dog scullcap, large tway-blade, pink and yellow lady slippers, slender and nodding ladies' tresses, ragged fringed orchis, smaller purple fringed orchis, fringeless purple orchis, green adermouth- orchid, downy rattle snake plantain, whorled, purple, and Florida milkweeds, Ohio, Riddle's, erect, showy, hairy, and stiff goldenrod, great and tuberous Indian plantain, thin leaf, Tradescant's and toothed whitetop asters, flame and pink azalea, poison and fragrant sumac, swamp and halbred leafed rose mallow, round podded and marsh, St. John's wort pitch pine, yellow pine, hemlock, red juniper, false rue-anemone, umbrella magnolia, slender angalinis, sorrel tree, hairy beard tongue, zigzag spiderwort, yellow pimpernell, shrubby cinquefoil, conobea, dense blazing star, wild rice, lizard's tail, linear-leaf yellow loosestrife, alternate leaf dogwood, marsh bellflower, rough buttonweed, lance leaf buckthorn, queen of the prairie Kalm's lobelia, spotted Joe-Pye weed, wild black currant.

Worm seed mustard, shaggy false gromwell, willow lettuce, Carolina Grass of Parnassus, green violet, wild bergamot, Virginia flax, large flowered valerian, great water dock, Turk's-cap lily, rose flowered raspberry, upright cinquefoil, true water cress, large and fringed houstonia, hoary vervain, spotted phlox, swamp lousewort, swamp loosestrife, pennywort, linear-leaf willow-herb, winter berry showy cone flower, Pennsylvania saxafrage, narrow leaf crabapple, small sundrops, Virginia dragonhead, long leaf houstonia, hairy bush clover, steeple-bush. St. Andrew's cross, yellow bartonia, lemon balm, hairy ruella, mountain Kalmia, whorled isotria, bush honeysuckle, deptford pink, lance leaf loosestrife, silky dogwood, pencil flower, long stalked green briar, large purple gerardia, pine tree club moss, sanifoin psoralea, aruncus, long stalked pimpernell, upland boneset, shinleaf wintergreen narrow-leaf cat-tail, clustered beak-rush, slender bush clover, spiked lobelia, white clintonia, American strawberry bush, halbred-leaf tear thumb, crested, New York, and marsh shield ferns, maiden hair, mountain, and pinnatifer spleenwort ferns.

These plants were collected in Pickaway, Fairfeld, Hocking, Ross Jackson and Pike counties; and while not new to the state they were new to the county in which found. One rainy dav in October we conveyed these plants to the University and turned them over to our good friend, John H. Schaffner, Research Professor of Botany, Ohio State University. A few days ago we received a letter from the professor complimenting us on our finds; also asking for more plants. Will he get them? Watch us!

Collecting plants is not the sole object of these "Joy Walks"; they tone the system as no other sport will do; they create in you a love for the beautiful and give you a better understanding of God and His creations.

Mrs. M. C. Mosley and daughter Helen, will leave Friday for Owensboro, Ky., where they will spend Christmas with relatives. At Cincinnati they will be joined by her sister with whom they will continue by motor to Kentucky.

Miss Louise Smith will assist Miss Elizabeth Dunlap at the Mitchell flower shop on W. Main st during the week until Christmas.

CLUB PARTY AT MRS. JOHN BELL'S

Following the custom of a good many years, of having a Christmas party with the exchange of gifts, members of the bridge club to which Mrs. John Bell, belongs, were entertained Monday night at her country home north of Circleville. Mingled with the regular club were six guests who had formerly formed part of the club.

At a long table appointed with Christmas favors, 18 found their places from Yuletide place cards. Burning red tapers lighted the scene in which a small Christmas tree formed the center decoration. The three course dinner was prepared and served by six of the club members, representing half of the club. The other six had prepared a charming Hallowe'en party which was held at the home of Mrs. George Fullen.

After dinner, the usual progressive bridge followed at four tables. Two prizes for high score were won by Mrs. Clarence Hott, and Mrs. Everett Lumpe.

Guests of the club for the evening were Mrs. Hott, Mrs. Lumpe, Mrs. J. J. McKinnon and Miss Marie Reichelderfer of Columbus, Miss Marvine Howard of Cleveland and Mrs. John Gallaher of Chillicothe.

COUNTY INTEREST FOCUSSED ON DEERCREEK, NEW HOLLAND

One of the toughest and most important basketball games of the county, of which the winner at this time cannot be possibly selected, will be played in the county loop Friday evening at New Holland when the Williamsport and New Holland teams meet.

Williamsport easily defeated Scioto-twp in the first game by a score of 20 to 7. They took their second game from Walnut-twp by a 28-12 score.

New Holland surprised in the first contest by winning from Ashville 18 to 16 in one of the hottest contested games played to date. Then they came right back to drub Monroe-twp boys by a 22-12 score.

One of the two teams is going to be a loser and the other will still possess a perfect standing at the end of their fracas Friday evening.

Jackson-twp and Walnut-twp will play a contest at Walnut with the Jackson boys slightly favored by virtue of their present showing as against two defeats for the Walnut lads.

Monroe-twp and Scioto-twp will tangle in a tough fray with the result of the contest a toss-up. The game will be played at Scioto.

Ashville will play its first game against Muhlenberg Friday evening and should be returned the victor. Ashville has had tough sledding in each of its first two games winning one and losing one, but back on their own floor where they will play the remainder of their season games, the Kaubermen will be plenty tough.

Girls' games are scheduled as preliminaries to the boys' contests.

CIRCLEVILLE IS READY FOR WASHINGTON

Circleville high school's basketball team is ready to win its first basketball game of the year and the victim of this first victory is going to be none other than the Washington C. H. quintet. Another part of this catch is that the game is going to be played at the Washington C. H. gym.

But after going through two basketball games that might have been entered on the Tiger side of the ledger, especially the last one with Marysville, the Red and Black is ready to enter the score of a court game on the right side of the ledger, and that side is the victory side.

Washington C. H. has a good basketball team as usual. But that makes no difference to this bunch of scrapping Tiger tossers. Just ask any member of the Red and Black squad if Washington isn't in for one of the toughest fights it has had on the hard wood for many moons.

The first basketball game the Tigers played they lost to Lancaster St. Mary high school. The score was 35-15 and although this score doesn't tell a thing except that the Tigers were outscored and plenty, the real truth of the contest was that the Red and Black had forgotten their football tactics since the Ashville game which was a month before this basketball battle.

The second defeat came at the hands of a Marysville high school team. There's no question of a doubt among the basketball players and all who watched the game that Circleville had quite the best team on the floor.

But after leading at the half something happened and the Tigers lost another basketball game. The score was 19 to 12.

In this game Marysville shot from the charity line 28 times and the local tossers toed the mark but 12 times. Quite a difference, isn't it?

Now comes the Washington C. H. team.

London high school's tossers drubbed the Washington team by a score of 44 to 17. No one knows why the score was this much except that London was on and Washington was very decidedly off form.

All the Washington scoring was done by Birley at forward with two field goals; Noon at forward with three buckets and a free throw; and Severs at center with three action shots.

But at that scores don't mean a thing. Lancaster St. Mary was defeated by Rushville the week before Coach Guthrie's men went to Lancaster but that didn't mean a thing for Lancaster went plenty hot against the local aggregation.

There's no way of knowing what lineup Coach Guthrie will start for that man doesn't tell a thing. It's entirely possible that the same lineup which worked against Marysville most of the game last Friday will be in there. That was Davis and Nickerson at forwards, Zeke Zeimer at center, and Russell and Wilson at guards, although there is a big possibility that Clark will be at a defensive post at the start or very early in the game.

EVEREADY RECEIVERS

SO MUCH POWER is produced by the three screen-grid tubes in the new Evereadys that a Power Detector is used. Power Detection avoids all the distortion of the older method. This is only one reason why the tone of the Screen-Grid Eveready is so faithful and true that musical critics acclaim it with delight. Some of the other factors in fidelity are: resistance coupling—distortionless; 245-type tubes in push-pull—full volume without distortion; and a sensitive, powerful electro-dynamic speaker in an acoustically designed cabinet.

CLUB PARTY AT MRS. JOHN BELL'S

Following the custom of a good many years, of having a Christmas party with the exchange of gifts, members of the bridge club to which Mrs. John Bell,belongs, were entertained Monday night at her country home north of Circleville. Mingled with the regular club were six guests who had formerly formed part of the club.

At a long table appointed with Christmas favors, 18 found their places from Yuletide place cards. Burning red tapers lighted the scene in which a small Christmas tree formed the center decoration. The three course dinner was prepared and served by six of the club members, representing half of the club. The other six had prepared a charming Hallowe'en party which was held at the home of Mrs. George Fullen.

After dinner, the usual progressive bridge followed at four tables. Two prizes for high score were won by Mrs. Clarence Hott, and Mrs. Everett Lumpe.

Guests of the club for the evening were Mrs. Hott, Mrs. Lumpe, Mrs. J. J. McKinnon and Miss Marie Reichelderfer of Columbus, Miss Marvine Howard of Cleveland and Mrs. John Gallaher of Chillicothe.
